

Episode-3: The Surgeon's Perspective: Dr. Zakir Ullah on Medicine, Mentorship, and More"

In this episode of the SRC Podcast, we are honored to welcome Dr. Zakir Ullah, a highly respected ENT surgeon, educator, and former professor at Khyber Medical College, Peshawar. With an extensive career spanning clinical practice, academia, and leadership, Dr. Zakir brings a wealth of experience and wisdom to our conversation.

We dive into the evolving field of Otorhinolaryngology (ENT), exploring the latest advancements, common misconceptions, and challenges faced by specialists in this domain. Dr. Zakir sheds light on the importance of mentorship in medicine, sharing his experiences in guiding young doctors and medical students. His insights into medical education, professional growth, and patient care serve as a valuable resource for aspiring healthcare professionals.

Beyond the technical discussions, this episode also takes a more personal turn, as Dr. Zakir shares his thoughts on the evolving landscape of medical education, the challenges young doctors face, and the role of mentorship in shaping successful careers. He reflects on his journey, offering valuable advice to medical students, and provides a deeper understanding of the field beyond textbooks and clinical rotations. Adding a touch of fun, we also step away from serious discussions to ask him some lighthearted and unexpected questions, revealing his perspective on life, career, and the memorable moments that have shaped his professional path.

Whether you're a medical student, a healthcare professional, or just someone curious about the world of medicine, this episode is packed with insightful takeaways and engaging conversations.